FAMILIAR FACES So Tired WILL BE MISSING

Notable Figures Disappear From Senate Since Last Session.

RACE FOR HOUSE CLERK IS ON

Livingstone, of Georgia, and Trimble, of Kentucky, Leading Candidates.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) Washington, December 2.—When Vice-President Sherman raps the Senate to order at noon Monday for the "short session" of Congress, many famillar faces will be missing.

Georgia has lost Senator Clay, whose Georgia has lost Senator Clay, whose place, temporarily, will be filled by former Governor Terrell; Senator Daniel, of Virginia, is succeeded by former Governor Swanson; Lafe Young takes Dolliver's seat, and, in addition to this, both the West Virginia men, Scott and Elkins, are on the sick list, with little probability of their being in the Senate any time scon, and Tillin the Senate any time soon, and Till man, of South Carolina, also on th man, of South Carolina, also on the discarded list by reason of long-continued lilness.

These changes, however, will be few in comparison to those that will be noticed next December, when the result of Democratic Legislatures in many parts of the country this winter are shown.

Race for Clerk Is On. Hace for Clerk Is On.

The race for clerk of the House to succeed Major McDowell is on in earnest. Every returning Congressman is buttonholed when he reaches the Union Station, quizzed on the way to his hotel as to whether or not he has been pledged for two of the candidates now running—Representative Livingstons of Georgie and former Pears now running—Representative Livingstone, of Georgia, and former Representative Trimble, of Kentucky, and asked to vote in the Democratic caucus for one of them, according to the man who has him in tow.

There is no way yet of determining how the race is going to terminate. Both of the candidates hav many friends in the House and they are leaving no stone unturned to pull off the coveted honor.

Mr. Livingston served something like twenty years in the lower House of Congress, and probably has as extended an acquaintance as any man who has served there before. Mr. Trimble has also served many years, though not so long as Mr. Livingston, though not so long as Mr. Livingston, and his friends believe he will get the Cutting Estimates Causes Trouble.

Many members of the House who have reached Washington are much perplexed because of the fact that the estimates for river and harbor work submitted a day or two ago by Chief of Engineers Bixby, of the War Dopartment, did not incorporate the reports of some of the division engineers, hence many projects in different sec-of some of the division engineers, hence many projects in different sections have been omitted. Telegrams have been received by members asking what is to be done about the matter, and some of them are in a quandary themselves what course to pursue. They cannot force the chief of engineers to incorporate these reports, and unless this is done the Rivers and Harbors Committee of the House has nothing upon which to base its bill for the coming session.

Aged Ventriloquist Resorts to Substitute for Liquier and Death Follows.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Roanoke, Va., December 2.—An aged ventriloquist and sleight of hand performer, known as Professor Wyman, died suddenly last night at Narrows, Glies county. He tried to get liquor from Bluefield, but as the shitpment was delayed he resorted to some vegetable extracts. After he drank them he became violently ill and died in a short while. Wyman claimed to belong to the lodge of Masons established by George Washington and the Masons of Narrows. It is believed that the man's claims are correct. Professor Wyman was seventy-five years old. He evidently had led a rambling life devoted principally to the show business.
